Is important to know how other countries work with Homeopathy, including laws and projects. We want to share this information from India:

From <http://hpathy.com/>

Dear Homeopath,

To improve the standards of homeopathy education and practice in India, the Niti Aayog of the Govt of India has drafted a new bill to replace the current Central Council of Homeopathy bill of 1973. The Government is aware of the poor standards of education, corruption, and poor standards of medical practice at several levels and wants to rectify these ills through the proposed new law.

The Niti Aayog is asking for comments from Homeopaths about this proposed bill. We request you to send all the problems you have experienced during your homeopathic education and practice and the solutions you would like to be included in the new bill, to the Niti Ayog. This is an opportunity for every homeopath to be part of the homeopathy reforms in India.

For the proposed bill please see:

<http://www.niti.gov.in/content/preliminary-report-committee-reform-indian-medicine-central-council-act-1970-and-0>

Send your suggestions and comments to Niti Aayog by e mail to: dirhealth-niti@gov.in and copy to: ep-ayush@gov.in

We appeal to you to please go through the bill and send your comments to the Niti Aayog. Your response is VERY valuable. This has to be sent before 20th April 2017. Please send today itself. Don't defer for tomorrow.

The Case FOR Homeopathic Medicine: The Historical and Scientific Evidence

by DANA ULLMAN, MPH, CCH

A lot of people today are confused about homeopathy is (and isn't), and this situation is not helped by the skeptics of homeopathy who go to incredible extents to exaggerate and misconstrue what homeopathic medicine is and who commonly provide misinformation about it. It is more than a tad ironic that these "skeptics" who hold themselves out as "defenders of medical science" have exhibited an embarrassingly poor scientific attitude when evaluating what homeopathy is and what the scientific evidence does and doesn't say about it.
